Programme Outline

Addressing climate change is both a challenge and an opportunity for business and the financial sector. This training aims to provide a broad range of tools and frameworks for understanding how business and the financial sector can interact with issues related to climate change and sustainability. It provides participants an opportunity to build a comprehensive understanding around topics such as latest developments in climate science, trends in low-carbon solutions, regulatory requirements in the financial sector and new business models. Participants who build competence in these areas are well positioned to take advantage of emerging opportunities in a growing segment of the job market, while contributing to the future of society at the same time.

Speaker Introduction

The speaker holds a PhD in Renewable Energy Management and master's degrees in international management and accounting and finance from the University of St. Gallen and the London School of Economics. He serves as Adjunct Assistant Professor for Climate Solutions at HKUST and is a lecturer in other sustainability executive education programmes and MBA modules focusing on climate change related topics. Outside of academia, he helps to lead the Climate & Sustainability team at Deloitte Hong Kong where he leads various projects in the field of sustainability and climate change for a wide range of industries – topics include sustainable finance, climate risks, consumer preferences, developing new low-carbon business models as well as decarbonisation strategies and pathways.
